

Imogen Ransome

“I like to communicate my thoughts, feelings and ideas through a range of art forms. This can be in everyday situations or in a more in-depth way when time allows. Dance is my favourite way of expressing myself, as it uses the whole body and can be really rewarding.

Music and dance go hand-in-hand, with composers and instrumentalists conveying their ideas through their music. I have been dancing and playing the piano since the age of four and I enjoy singing, improvising and composing.

These interests have led me to the visual arts as another way of expressing myself. Whatever thoughts I have can be represented physically through paint, collage and photography. The more I experiment and appreciate the work of other artists, the more I am able to articulate myself on paper.”

Imogen is an original member of the #BeACreativeProducer Project.
