

Using AccessArt as a Scheme? Ensure Your Intent Matches Our Intent

If you are interested in following the AccessArt Primary Art Curriculum as an art scheme in your school, it's important that you understand the philosophy and intent behind our work, to ensure that it matches and informs your own understanding and practise of how best to teach art in your school.

There are many ways to teach art, and there is no "right or wrong" approach. To help you understand more about our approach, and to help you decide if it is right for your pupils and teachers, please visit:

- Please see the AccessArt Primary Art Curriculum PDF to read about the vision behind our scheme.
- Please watch the videos here to understand the intent behind our scheme, and how it is structured.
- Please watch some of the recordings here to see examples of our Pathways.
- Explore this step by step of how to get started with using the AccessArt Art

Curriculum.

- Enjoy some of the short animations here to understand more about our pedagogy.

It is also important that once you have decided to use the AccessArt Primary Art Curriculum that you bring staff up to speed and help build their understanding of our approach. Our aim is not just to help educate pupils, but also to help build staff skills, confidence and enjoyment in teaching art, whatever their starting point. Consider running staff meetings when you share the above links, and once you are a member of AccessArt, encourage staff to attend our free CPD programme.
