

Using monoprint to Create a Textured Collage: Toy Farmyard and Woodland Animal Still Life

By Sheila Ceccarelli

In this workshop teenagers used acrylic paint to do monoprinting and create a textured collage.

Teenagers draw toy farmyard and woodland animals

This workshop gave students the chance to experiment with a variety of different processes to create rich, textured surfaces. There was a sense of play, 'happy accident' and trial and error to perfect the monoprinting technique.

Students enjoyed collaging elements together and building up textured compositions.
